

Are You Stuck in a Social Media Echo Chamber?

By Lydia Greene, Back to the Vax

Social media algorithms will show you what it thinks you want to see, not what you NEED to see. It's crazy how the social media algorithm works. Did you happen to click on an anti-vaccine article? Now your social media algorithms will bring you similar content. Soon it will seem like everyone you know and follow is anti-vaccine, when in reality, the majority agree that vaccination is the best way to prevent disease, death, and suffering.

We at Back to the Vax know this all too well, so we have created a list of social media experts to follow, so that you can fill your social media with accurate and helpful scientific information regarding vaccines. We have gotten to know many experts in our journey to gaining vaccine confidence and have been truly touched by how helpful the scientific community is. We also have a podcast called Back to the Vax, where we interview experts on common vaccine misconceptions.

Social Media Resources:

Immunize Kansas Coalition

www.immunizekansascollection.org

Vaccinate Your Family

www.vaccinateyourfamily.org

Voices for Vaccines

www.voicesforvaccines.org

Immunize.org

www.immunize.org

Stronger, identifying the spread of misinformation online

www.stronger.org

Kristen Stuppy, M.D., Kansas Pediatrician

Follow her on Twitter @pediatricskc

Edward Nierenberg, Medical Student, Science Communicator, and Founder of

www.deplatformdisease.com

Victoria Crabb, Ph.D. Epidemiologist

Follow on Twitter @crabb_vicki

Dan Wilson, Ph.D. in Molecular Biology and Science Communicator with the YouTube channel Debunk the Funk with Dr. Dan Wilson, where he observes current disinformation trends and debunks them with facts

Jonathan Howard, M.D., Neurologist

Dr. Howard has written many informative articles on COVID-19 contrarians and more. Visit this website to find articles: sciencebasedmedicine.org

Follow on Twitter @19joho

Vincent Iannelli, M.D., Pediatrician, and Founder of Vaxopedia.org

Vaxopedia is a wonderful debunking resource on vaccine disinformation. He works hard to stay on top of all the newest disinformation.

Thomas A. Nguyen, D.O., Pediatrician

Follow on Twitter @quality_nguyen

